- Among those companies who do not offer these services currently, a significant percentage is willing to consider offering one or more transportation benefit programs to employees.
- More than half would consider offering services such as transit information, transit schedules, SmarTrip cards, guaranteed ride home, and bike racks/lockers.
- Those who offer benefits programs see a positive impact in terms of recruitment, morale, retention, reduced absenteeism, and other factors.
- Companies offering greater numbers of programs report more benefits being accrued to their companies and also give the county higher ratings overall as a business location.
